SUSANNE BECKER, Plaintiff, vs. 8:20cv00394

vs,

Defendants

United States Postal and assigns

Additional show cause

National Association of Letter Carriers and assigns

---

Additional information:

You see that even if the USPS over pay me they still had to send me a W-2 according to the exhibit 7 page 2 top of the page first paragraph and within that paragraph states: "Amounts that are not repaid in the same year as the original payment must be included in income and wages and reported as such on the employee's Form W-2 for the year of receipt. This is also stated in the debt invoice to me.

You know why they have to give me a w-2 on overpayments because I become my own employer and I am paying myself back for advanced payments for my other employer like a 1099 form. So, like in this case if I was paid 4,48.75 every time I paid on this debt I would receive a new invoice for the remaining balance the next year that would be my new income amount just like the sentence says " must be included in income wages and reported as w-2.

So, in my prior exhibits 3, 4 and 5 on the show cause brief:

The Post office had to give me a w-2 for 2018 for the amount of 2,032.05 and for 2019 year to cause that is concerned income and not debt cause I am my own employer for the advancement of income until the salary overpayment is paid for cause I get to write it off as taxable income. Therefore, I was again denied my rights as an employee and as an employer to offset my owed taxable income when the USPS/NALC and the APWU stole my taxes and refused to issue me a w-2. Mark Dimondstein, Fredric V. Rolando and Lousi Dejoy all played a part in the theft as well as the managers, clerks, carriers and union representatives of the USPS/NALC and APWU
